General:

- Each prospective bidder shall submit a prequalification form. The scoring for each section is indicated on the form. (See attached.)
- Incomplete or inaccurate sections in the prequalification form will result in a score of zero.
- A contractor shall not be allowed to submit a bid on these projects unless it has been prequalified.
- The Construction Manager reserves the right to reject a prequalified contractor's bid if it is determined that the bid was not the lowest responsible and responsive bid, taking into consideration his acceptance of contract terms, construction schedule, scope of work or good faith efforts toward HUB participation.

Appeals:

- A firm may appeal the denial of prequalification. Written appeals must be submitted via e-mail or hand-delivery to the Construction Manager within three business days of denial notification. The written appeal shall clearly indicate the reasons why the firm is contesting the denial and attach all documents and additional information supporting the firm's position.
- The CMR will rule on the appeal and notify the company of their ruling within three business days.
